Research on a Napkin: Feedback on Research Design and Statistical Issues

Do you have questions relating to your research or analysis?
Do you want help getting started on a research project?

This session will provide an opportunity for research-related consultation with Biostatistics, Epidemiology, and Research Design experts from the UC-Merced Health Sciences Research Institute (HSRI). The goal is to come to the session with a research question in mind. After a presentation about the HSRI and the available resources, investigators will meet with experts 1:1 for back-of-the-napkin style research guidance. Our goal is to help you get your research going!
